LIVELY TIMES IN CORK

THE CONTENDING FACTIONS IN BITTER MOOD.

Poetic Revenge on an Imprudent McCarthyite—The Pope May Leave Rome—Roumanians Guard Their Frontier—The Split Among German Socialists.

LONDON, Oct. 22.—General Wolseley, commanding the forces in Ireland, who remained in Dublin during the Parnellite funeral, will be a frequent visitor to Cork until a successor to Mr. Parnell has been elected. It is reported from Cork that the stocks of dealers in blackthorns and heavy shillelahs are almost entirely exhausted. Additional supplies have been ordered, to be used, it is understood, as arguments in the coming election. The fighting last night was more in the nature of a preliminary skirmish, and had no decisive result, and while there were a number of bruised heads, nobody is reported hurt. The real fighting is expected in the course of a day or two. It is said that many of the partisans of both factions are armed with pistols and will not hesitate to use them. During the altercations that attended Redmond's progress to the hotel last evening, an excited McCarthyite uttered aloud an assertion that Parnell was in a place the reverse of heaven and that his followers ought to go there. This so angered a crowd of Parnellites that they captured the McCarthyite and compelled him to kneel down in the street and pray for Parnell. There were other incidents almost equally ludicrous and exciting.

THE POPE'S QUANDARY.

ROME, Oct. 22.—It is stated that the Pope is still undecided as to whether he will or will not leave Rome. He is not satisfied with the response of Austria, the only Catholic country from which he expected influential interference in his behalf, which has rested content with an assurance from Italy that the next papal election would be protected from Italian interference. What the Pope hoped for was a vigorous assertion in favor of the temporal power of the papacy. This failing, the Pope is at least half resolved to leave Rome as the most striking protest that he can present against the existing state of affairs. The cardinals, most of whom are old men, and comfortably settled in Rome, are said to have given almost unanimous advice against removal, and have so far exercised a restraining influence upon the Pontiff, coupled with his feeble health.

THE GERMAN SOCIALISTS.

BERLIN, Oct. 22.—Herr Bebel in an interview last night said that he had never had any doubt as to what the chance of the Social Democrat party would be as between anarchy and lawful agitation. The party was now so firmly established that it need not fear any attacks on the part of those whom the Congress had expelled, or their anarchist friends. The action then in expelling the revolutionists was necessary, and not taken too soon, as subsequent events, Herr Bebel suggests, will verify. Herr Bebel said that the Socialist party would go on in the work it had undertaken without engaging in lawless demonstrations, and without intermingling with it the objects and aims of other political parties.

BROKER DUBEDANT'S SENTENCE.

DUBLIN, Oct. 22.—Frank Dubedant, the stock broker and president of the Dublin Stock Exchange, was sentenced to 12 months' imprisonment for breach of the bankruptcy laws and to seven years penal servitude for stock-broking frauds. When Dubedant's wrongdoing was discovered he fled to Cape Colony, South Africa, but was followed and brought back to this city.

ROUMANIANS ON GUARD.

VIENNA, Oct. 22.—The Roumanian War Office has caused to be detailed small bodies of infantry, with an occasional battery of artillery, at intervals along the banks of the Pruth, and the Roumanian side of the stream is closely patrolled by sentinels. The object is not so much to prevent Russians crossing as to uphold the rights of Roumania by offering at least a firm resistance to the Russian advance.

THE HAUGHTY ALBANIANS.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 22.—The Sublime Porte has ordered a thorough investigation as to the reported fight between Albanians and Montenegrins. The Port, however, if fully conscious of its inability to bring any pressure to bear upon the Albanians, who are equally indifferent to Montenegro and to the Porte, as long as they are not interfered with.

The Czar's Contribution.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 21.—The Czar gives 3,000,000 roubles from his own private purse to the famine fund, and has issued an appeal to members of the nobility and landed gentry to form another fund for the relief of the famishing people.

Anti-Jewish riots have occurred at Ternicoff. Troops had to interfere to protect the Jews from their persecutors, whose hatred is animated by the belief that they had caused the scarcity of grain and the consequent distress.

A Crooked Hungarian Jockey.

BUDA PESTH, Oct. 21.—Sporting circles throughout Hungary are excited at the discovery of a series of extensive frauds committed by a jockey who had been riding for Herr Blaskowitz, owner of the largest racing stable in this country. The jockey, it appears, has been betting on and against his own mounts, and thereby netted large sums of money. The disgraced rider had a number of confederates, and further important revelations may be expected.

Murdered by Siberian Convicts.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 21.—Vladivostock is undergoing a reign of terror. Fourteen convicts employed on the new trans-Siberian railroad have escaped from the guards, and the only means they have of providing themselves with private clothes is by a succession of murders. They have already made five victims, three inmates of one house, one French naval officer belonging to a squadron in port, and a Russian bandmaster. No arms can be purchased in Vladivostock, and those who have weapons keep them ready for instant use, as everybody fears an attack from the convicts. The latter murder people for clothes, and if anyone attempts to save his life by giving the escaped clothes, he is immediately charged as an accomplice by the Russian police.

REV. PHILLIPS BROOKS.

The Celebrated Clergyman who has Become Bishop of Massachusetts.

The great hearted Broad Churchman, Phillips Brooks, the ornament and pride of Boston, is now Bishop of Massachusetts. As head of the diocese his influence will certainly enlarge still further the interests of the Protestant Episcopal Church. Phillips Brooks is a man beloved and the opposition manifested by certain High Churchmen to his elevation to the episcopate is no longer manifested. When his election was confirmed the man who opposed his consecration yielded with brotherly good-will.

Dr. Brooks was born in Boston somewhat more than fifty-six years ago. He was graduated at Harvard when 20 years old, and after a course of theological study was admitted to holy orders. From 1859 to 1870 he preached with increasing popularity in Philadelphia. He removed to Boston in 1870, where his triumphs of noble oratory and exemplary manhood are one of the chief glories of the city.

The new Bishop has a large and handsome presence. His countenance is singularly expressive and powerful. The rapidity of his utterance, which possibly impairs his delivery, is accompanied with gifts of voice which are wonderfully sympathetic and command earnest attention.

Fire in Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Oct. 22.—A fire which started in a large four story building at the corner of Centre and Winslow streets at 3:30 yesterday morning entailed a loss of $100,000. The upper floor was occupied by the Oxydized Acid Company and it is supposed the fire started in this department as a result of spontaneous combustion. The acids deposited in big tanks on the top floor caused a series of terrific explosions, and scattered bricks, stone and timbers in all directions. Several firemen narrowly escaped being fearfully injured by flying missiles. The first, second and third floors were occupied by the Royal Machine Company and the Viaduct Brass Company. The insurance will cover about a third of the loss.

Henry W. Grady's Monument.

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 22.—The monument to the late Henry W. Grady was unveiled here yesterday in the presence of a vast assemblage. The day was generally observed as a holiday, business being practically suspended. The procession formed at the Capital and moved down Mitchell street to Whitehall, on Whitehall to Alabama, on Alabama to Lloyd, Lloyd to Decatur, thence to the monument. It was one of the largest ever seen in Atlanta, including the militia of the city and neighboring towns, civil societies and labor organizations of all kinds. A large platform had been erected at the monument, with a seating capacity of more than a thousand, for the more noted participants and guests at the unveiling ceremonies.

The Husband Killed Himself.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—A special to the World from Plymouth, Pa., says: Jacob Masterman, an aged and wealthy farmer residing in Fairmount township, sixteen miles from here, committed suicide yesterday morning because his young wife eloped with William Belas, one of his farm hands. He tracked them to the railroad station, where he learned they had bought tickets to Philadelphia. Seven hundred dollars in money and his best team and carriage disappeared at the same time. He returned home and shot himself.

Mr. Franklyn's Sentence.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Sylvester Franklyn, the projector of female baseball teams, convicted last week of abducting fifteen-year old Libbie Sunderland from her home in Binghamton, was yesterday sentenced to States prison for five years and a fine of $1000, to stand a day committed for each dollar until the fine is paid.

Floods in Mexico.

CITY OF MEXICO, Oct. 21.—The San Juan and Papooshan rivers are rising rapidly and have overflowed their banks in many places. Several towns have been inundated, and there has also been great destruction of crops. Heavy rains have fallen in the State of Tobasco, and the city of San Juan, Bautista, is in great danger.

Took Prussic Acid.

ST. PAUL, Oct. 22.—Dr. Chas. A. Stein, veterinary surgeon of Custer's regiment, the seventh cavalry, was found dead in his house on Tuesday. A partly empty vial of prussic acid showed that he had taken his life. He was 28 years of age.

A GRAND TROTTING RACE

SUNOL DETHRONES MAUD S. AND SCORES IN 2:08 1-4.

Great Excitement at Stockton Over This Performance—Marvin, her Driver is Proud and Robert Bonner, her Owner, is Doubly Proud.

THE TURF.

STOCKTON, Oct. 20.—Marvin did not like the wind that was blowing up to noon to-day and said he would not start Sunol unless the wind died out. He was urged to make the attempt as the day was warm and the track fast, and at 4 o'clock he concluded to bring Sunol out, as the wind had gone down. He jogged her three miles and she seemed to feel just right. The track was rolled down for the attempt and Sunol was driven out for the start just before 5 o'clock. A double set of timers had been kept busy during the other racing, and six watches were held on Sunol, so there could be no question about the record. The mare had been driven four miles, one rather fast, when she was found ready for the event of her life. Tim O'Brien, of the Palo Alto stables, was stationed at the half mile pole with the runner to accompany Sunol to the finish, but she went alone the first half-mile. Marvin nodded for the word at the first attempt. President Shippe shouted "Go!" and Sunol went out to win the record that Marvin has been working for so long. Sunol was guided along just inside the center of track, which had been prepared for her, and Marvin cautioned her with his long drawn out "Whoa," to keep her from becoming too excited. She went to the quarter pole in 31¾ and kept on at her wonderful stride to the half mile post in 1:04 flat.

Here Tim O'Brien came into the race with a runner. The mare came around the turn faster than any man on the grounds ever saw a trotter go, and reached the three-quarter post in 1:37. It was a great race against time as she came down the stretch to the finish and the excited timers shouted: "She's got it! She'll beat it!" Sunol came home in a magnificent finish. Marvin had the race and he encouraged the mare all the while, calling on her, but did not use the whip. Everybody shouted as she went under the wire in 2:08¼. It was the gamest finish ever seen on the race track. Six timers compared their watches and they were exactly the same —2:08¼. There was no watch on the grounds to dispute the correctness of the record except to make it faster by a quarter of a second. The crowd yelled like a lot of crazy men, and cheer after cheer went up for Sunol and Marvin. Marvin was greatly pleased at the result, but he was quiet and had little to say. He said to a reporter: "They will hammer at that figure for a long time."

The record of Maud S. (2:08¾) was made in Cleveland, Ohio, July 30, 1885, and had remained unbroken up to this time. Sunol has made the most remarkable record of any trotter in the history of racing events. She made successively the best two-year old record (2:18), the best three and four-year old records (2:10½), and now at five years she makes the best performance for that or any other age. Sunol (pronounced Sun-yul) and Maude S. are both the property of Robert Bonner of New York.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Robert Bonner said: "I regard Sunol as the most wonderful animal ever foaled. I hesitate to compare her with Maud S., as the latter made her record over a regulation track, and, as all horsemen know, the kite-shaped track over which Sunol trotted to-day is a trifle faster than the regulation one. Still, it is a glorious record. To show you how much superior I regard Sunol to Maud S., I will say that I paid $40,000 for Maud S., and $41,000 for Sunol. There is a regulation track at Stockton, and Sunol will trot over it later, but I think she will excel Maud S.'s marvellous speed. These two horses I regard as nearly evenly matched.

"The three greatest trotters in the world are, in my opinion, Maud S., Sunol and Nancy Hanks. We have not experience enough with the kite-shaped track to tell what may be accomplished on it. Charles Marvin, Senator Stanford's trainer and superintendent on his ranch, has written to me that the kite-shaped track, being new, is somewhat slow. He says that after the fall rains, in a week or so, the track will be packed and solid, and that Sunol will reduce, perhaps by the fraction of a second, her present magnificent time. Maud S. is now breeding, but I believe that when she is in perfect condition and in good training she can trot in about 2:07. I believe also that Sunol can equal her on a regular track. I will bring her here about November 1, and will jog her on the roads for a while. In the spring I will put her in training to beat the record over a regulation track."

THE GUN.

SCHULTZE'S SMOKELESS POWDER.

To the habitual user of the old time black powder the employment for the first time of a material white in color, and smokeless in discharge is a perfect revelation. To fire at a bird, hear a very slight report, and see the bird collapse in the air without any apparent cause is something of a surprise as well as pleasure. Mr. Tisdall, of Vancouver, wishing to have the properties of the powder tested, sent a sample case to some Victoria sportsmen the other day. Their verdict is that the combustion of this powder is more complete than that of black. There is very little solid residue, and the quantity of gaseous product is proportionately greater. As a consequence, it propels projectiles with greater velocity, force and precision than ordinary gunpowder. It produces no sulphurous or other unwholesome smell, and only a thin smoke, which dissipates immediately—a matter of great importance in getting in the second barrel. In consequence of these properties, after any number of discharges there is but little accumulation of residuum or incrustation, so prejudicial to good shooting and to the durability of a gun. A number of the seal hunters have decided to test the powder at sea this season, as they complain of very often losing seal owing to the smoke cloud that hangs over after the first barrel.

FOOTBALL.

At the Hill yesterday afternoon the Corrig College Blues and Whites engaged in a very close game. The Whites were victorious, defeating their opponents by five goals to two.

The following officers have been elected by the Victoria Club Association: President, Sir Matthew B. Begbie; vice-president, Lt.-Col. E. G. Prior; captain, Mr. B. H. T. Drake; committee, Messrs. Cuppage, Clifton and Martin; secretary and treasurer, Wm. Allan, P.O. box 266, Victoria.

THE RIFLE.

On Saturday next the members of the militia of Victoria and New Westminster will shoot for the Flemming cup now held by Corporal Turnbull of New Westminster. The Victorians will shoot at the Goldstream range, leaving here on the early morning train for that place. The Westminster team will shoot at Brownsville. Seven shots each at 300 and 600 yard ranges, are the conditions.

NANAIMO NEWS.

St. Alban's Church Dedication Fire at the Powder Works.

NANAIMO, Oct. 22.—The ceremony of dedicating St. Alban's Church school was performed yesterday by the Right Rev. Bishop Hills, assisted by Archdeacon Scriven, Rev. Mr. Tovey, Rector of the new church, Rev. J. B. Good, Rev. S. Agassiz, Rev. J. W. Flinton, Rev. Mr. Roberts and Rev. Mr. Clinton. The new edifice was packed to the doors. The service consisted of matins and special dedication prayers, read by the Bishops, and the sermon was also preached by him. The school room is not yet completed, and therefore was not the picture it will present in another couple of weeks. This building is to answer the purpose of a church and schoolroom until such time as a large stone church is erected in juxtaposition to it. However the members of St. Albans will be delighted to attend divine service in their own church, as during the time the Rev. M. Tovey has been at the head of the church they have been compelled to hold service in the Good Templars' Hall, so that it is expected the congregation will increase.

COUNTY COURT.

A large number of cases were disposed of before Judge Harrison in the County Court yesterday. The Belgians are the most difficult people his honor has to deal with, and the interpretation of evidence generally takes a long time. The Judge remarked in one case that something would have to be done in Nanaimo, as it was common for persons on both sides of a case to directly swear to false statements, and he would have to make an example of some of them.

FIRE AT THE POWDER WORKS.

On Monday afternoon the lumber-drying house at the Hamilton Powder Works caught fire and was completely destroyed. It is the general belief that some of the straws had fallen near the stove and thus become ignited. There was hardly any wind, and even if there had been, the other houses, being built of brick, with iron roofs, would be sufficiently safe. The loss is estimated at $100.

LITTLE HAPPENINGS.

The Salvation Army intend to erect a barracks almost immediately.

The work of excavating for Mr. W. Wilson's new block commenced yesterday.

A very pleasant time was spent at the Methodist social last evening, and everything passed off splendidly.

War on The Gaiety Girls.

HIAWATHA, Kans., Oct. 22.—The leading and best ladies of this city have begun a fight against the London Gaiety girls, who are giving a series of performances here. They called upon the council on Tuesday and asked them to prevent the performances, but that body refused to interfere. They then armed themselves with pitch-forks and rakes and scraped the bills from the boards and satisfied themselves somewhat by declaring the men who attended the show social outcasts.

Shot Himself.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Wm. E. Whitehouse, forty years old, residing at 1257 Pacific street, Brooklyn, and a member of the Stock Exchange, shot himself yesterday morning at the Clarendon hotel, Brooklyn. He left a letter addressed to the hotel-keeper and one to his wife. His wound was fatal.

Miners Killed by Foul Air.

MONARCH, Colo., Oct. 21.—William Davis and L. Lock, miners, were overcome by foul air while descending a mine near here yesterday morning. They fell out of a basket to the bottom of the shaft, 50 feet below, and were crushed to death.

The Yaquis on the War Path.

NOGALES, Arizona, Oct. 22.—The state of Sonora is again in a fever of excitement because the Yaqui Indians along the Yaqui River had declared war. The Mexican Government is concentrating troops as rapidly as possible, and preparations are making for a vigorous campaign.

A Short Champagne Crop.

BERLIN, Oct. 21.—The vintage in the champagne district this year is comparatively a failure owing to hail storms and mildew. A yield of but twelve million bottles is looked for.

Floods in Spain.

MADRID, Oct. 22.—News comes from Granada of a fresh and disastrous flood in that province. Many houses are wrecked and a great number of cattle lost. Railway travel to the province is at a standstill.

BEHRING SEA SEALING.

A SHORT HISTORY OF THIS IMPORTANT INDUSTRY.

What the "London Times" Says About the Matter—Interesting Sketch by a Local Correspondent of That Paper—Wonderful Growth of the Industry.

(Concluded.)

Many have been the reasons put forward by Americans why the killing of seals in Behring Sea should be declared illegal. Of course the contention that the sea was a mare clausum has always been of first importance, but many of the best thinking men of the American press have been of the opinion that the claim is not a just one. Among some of the reasons advanced for the American contention might be mentioned that which has evidently had much weight with British diplomats—namely, the plea that, if the animals are allowed to be killed in the sea, the result will be the total extinction of the seal. Those who have urged this argument say nothing against the killing of the seals by hundreds of thousands on the breeding islands, but declare with emphasis that the shooting of, say, 20,000 seals in the sea is calculated to interfere with the natural increase to such an extent as to threaten extinction. The fallacy of the claim is easily perceived by comparing the two sides of the question. The Victoria sealers hunt over an area of about 12,000 square miles. This gives about 240 square miles to each schooner of the fleet, a vast area from which to take the average catch of 2000 seals taken annually by each schooner. The licensed killers on the seal islands have slaughtered the animals by hundreds of thousands right in their breeding places—a wasteful course, calculated to check unduly the increase by natural means, for it is believed that the dams are slaughtered while the pups are yet too small to provide for themselves. All the Victorian sealers have expressed themselves as quite agreeable to a close season for a time, but they wish that a close season should be also observed on the islands, as it would be manifestly unjust that the business of the Victorian fleet should be stopped and the lessees of the seal islands be allowed to pursue their seal-killing on the rookeries unchecked.

Interested parties in the United States have had reports made by so-called "experts" on the condition of the sealing business and on the probable effect on seal life if the present rate of killing were kept up. All, or nearly all, of these "experts" have reported that but few seal were left; that the Victoria seal pirates had killed them off. Mr. Tingley, as lately as 1888, reported that seal life was on the increase; yet, in spite of this, the cry has been kept up that the seal were becoming extinct. But they are not. Every master of the sealing fleet who was interviewed by your correspondent admitted that the seal are in no ways diminishing in numbers. The oldest hands in the business state that there are apparently as many seals in the sea nowadays as there were many years ago. There is, however, some greater difficulty experienced in capturing them. The oldest ones have learned what a sealing boat is, and at the sound of a gun, or at the approach of a boat, the wary animal is on its guard, and thus it is harder for the hunter to get within range of his quarry. Yet, in spite of this fact, large numbers are killed, and the business is fairly profitable. I conversed with sealing schooner-masters and seal hunters during my stay in the northern waters on the steamer Danube's trip, and, as few, if any, of these men knew the object of my inquiries, it is safe to state that the reports given were correct. In every particular the facts were given as stated, and by my personal observation the evidence was fully substantiated.

During my stay in the sealing waters I had an opportunity of seeing the methods by which the seal are taken, both by the white hunters and the Indians. Instantaneous photographs of both methods show that the stories of British sealers clubbing the animals to death on shore must be false, the illustrations of the American press to the contrary evidently being imaginative sketches, on a par with much other erroneous matter concerning the sealing business. The Indian kills the seal by paddling his canoe close to the sleeping animal, and then hurling, with unerring aim, a spear, with line attached. Seldom or never does a seal escape. The white hunters use the gun, as before described.

Another very important feature of the sealing business I learned while I was in the north—namely, that, after the end of May, hardly any cow seal with young are taken. This shows conclusively that the killing of seal by the hunters in boats is not calculated in any way unduly to retard the natural increase. From careful inquiry and personal inspection, it has been ascertained that about the middle and end of May the seal herds separate, when in the waters of the Pacific Ocean, away to the southward of their breeding places. The old bulls and the cows in young go at once toward the rookeries or breeding places, and leave behind the main body of the herd, consisting of young bulls, barren cows, etc. From this it is easily seen that the catch off the coast after the end of May, as well as the catch in northern waters, must of a necessity be seal not carrying young, because that part of the herd which is en route for the breeding islands does not rest or stop, but consists of what are known to sealers as "travellers." These it is almost impossible to shoot from the boats, as they only stop when the breeding islands are reached. For about eight weeks after the young are dropped the dam stays about the islands, going off the coast in the day to feed and returning after short stays, when they become an easy prey to the killers on the islands.

Concerning a close season for seals, every one who has a practical knowledge of the animal says that, if it is desirable to use measures to preserve seal life, then a close season on the islands and in their immediate vicinity should be declared—say, from the end of May to the 1st of November. A line of demarcation—say, 20 miles out from the islands—should be fixed as the limit within which no seal should be killed, as it is within a radius of about 20 miles that the mother seal feed during breeding time. The question of how many seals should be killed on the islands is one which should be left to a commission of thoroughly practical men to decide; but, if is intended not only to preserve the seal, but also to allow their numbers to increase, the quantity killed should not be very large.

The catch of seal skins taken on the coast having been transferred to the steamer Danube, she left the northern waters on the last day in June, and, after a four days' trip, reached Fort Simpson, the most northerly place of call on the British Columbia coast. Here the news was received that, contrary to the impression of all, the fiat had gone forth that Behring Sea must be closed, and that a special commission to go to the northern seal rookeries was to leave Victoria in July, by a special vessel which had been chartered for the purpose. Orders from the manager of the Canadian Pacific Navigation Company, Captain J. Irving, were received to make all possible haste back to Victoria, and on the afternoon of Monday, the 6th of July, the Danube returned to that port, the first British merchant vessel that had gone into those waters.

The question of the commission which was to set out was of course freely discussed. Practical men said that it was too late to start for the rookeries, for by the time the vessel reached them nearly all the seal would have left. In any event large numbers would be away, and a thoroughly competent decision or estimate of the numbers annually breeding could not be formed by the commissioners.

The question of indemnity to those who have large amounts invested in the sealing business is now one of vital importance to the Victorians interested. That an indemnity to recompense them in some substantial way is due, no one can for a moment doubt. Everyone hopes for a fair and equitable settlement of this matter, which should receive immediate attention.

CANADIAN NOTES.

A Budget of News and Gossip From the Eastern Provinces.

Vice-President Shaughnessy, of the C.P.R., is in Winnipeg en route to the west.

General Herbert and Captain Streatfeild, A.D.C., left Ottawa last night for Winnipeg on a tour of inspection. If time permits they will visit the Pacific coast.

Henry Villard, the Northern Pacific magnate, was in Winnipeg Sunday. The big Northern Pacific hotel there will be opened with a grand ball on Christmas.

The first passenger train ran over the Toronto Belt line railway last Thursday from the Union station to the Upper Canada College, by way of Parkdale and Davenport.

William Cleavly, employed in a lumber camp near Dorset, was fatally shot by James Canning, a blacksmith, working in the same camp. Canning was hunting, and mistook the other for a deer.

Sir Geo. Baden-Powell and Dr. Dawson returned to Ottawa yesterday morning. They won't speak of their mission until they report to the Imperial Government, and leave for Washington in a few days.

Supt. Sherwood, of the Dominion Police, has left Ottawa on a mysterious Government mission. It is believed his destination is Quebec, in connection with the prosecution of McGreevy, Connolly and Murphy.

A heavy consignment of pedigreed live stock, consisting of Shorthorns, Sussex, Polled Aberdeen, Devons, Ayrshires and Jerseys, has been landed at Point Levis, consigned to the Minister of Agriculture for Ontario.

McFarlane, the Hudson Bay factor at Fort Cumberland, has arrived in Ottawa on business with the Interior Department. He has entered a claim and made application for the purchase of an amber deposit valued at $4,000,000.

The conspiracy case of the Queen against Robert McGreevy and Owen Murphy opened in the Court of Queen's Bench at Quebec yesterday. The accused, it will be remembered, are charged with attempting, by means of a pretended promissory note, to defraud Michael Connolly out of $400,000.

It is stated in Ottawa that the Governor-General has asked Premier Abbott to take steps leading to the removal of the name of Sir Hector Langevin from the list of Privy Councillors for Canada, at the suggestion of the Imperial Government, in accordance with the precedent in Sir Charles Dilke's case. The Premier has promised to consider the case.

Tuesday night a disastrous fire occurred at Bathurst, N.B., burning the stores of A. Mehan & Co., Donnelly & Hickson, and Mrs. Sinclair, with most of their contents. The Merchants' Bank of Halifax building, the curling rink, the dwelling of K. Burns, M.P., and Jos. Hickson, were also destroyed. The Powers hotel was badly damaged. The losses are all well covered.

A dispatch from Stony Point, Essex county, Ont., says:—Despite the storm and knee-deep mud, the mass meeting to agitate annexation to the United States was held here to-day, with Israel Desjardins, who has been one of the most active Conservatives in the West, in the chair. A resolution endorsing political union was carried unanimously by a standing vote. There was intense enthusiasm as the speakers announced the urgent requests pouring in for meetings elsewhere.

Hon. J. A. Chapleau, who has been unwell for several days past, was stricken with heart failure in his office on Tuesday. A messenger hastily summoned a doctor who promptly applied restoratives. Mr. Chapleau remained in an unconscious condition for 10 minutes. He was driven home in a cab. Dr. Church reported yesterday that the patient had passed a very satisfactory night. He slept well, and in the morning seemed to be greatly improved. Of course he is confined to bed, and will not be able to resume work for three or four days. Dr. Church does not regard his patient's condition as at all alarming. Mr. Chapleau's friends are, nevertheless, much alarmed and telegraphic enquiries after his health have been numerous.

The peculiar enervating effect of summer weather is driven off by Hood's Sarsaparilla, which "makes the weak strong."

It is a matter of astonishment that so many women suffer in silence the troubles peculiar to their sex when Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are an unfailing cure. Suppressions, derangements, weakness, etc., especially yield to their treatment. Sold by all dealers or by mail on receipt of price (50c. a box) by addressing Dr. Williams Med. Co., Brockville, Ont.

Henry G. James.

Henry G. James, of Winnipeg, Man., writes: "For several years I was troubled with pimples and irritations of the skin. After other remedies failed I used four bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters, and since then I have been quite free from my complaint. B.B.B. will always occupy a place in my house."

Oriental Hotel, Vancouver.

Rows in Cork.

LONDON, Oct. 21.—Faction fights are almost of hourly occurrence in Cork and the excitement is growing to a degree that cannot, according to appearances, long be unattended by bloodshed. The Parnellites are furious and revengeful, and their opponents are hardly less aggressive. The fight will be the fiercest that Cork has had for twenty years and all the leaders of both parties will have a share in it. There is some hesitation among the McCarthyites as to whether they will run W. O'Brien or Davitt against Redmond. Davitt is stronger than O'Brien with the extreme element of Cork on account of his sufferings in the English prison. O'Brien is looked at askance by many of both factions, who charge that he is rather unstable. The police are doing their duty in Cork and find hard work in suppressing the faction fights, which are hourly occurring. Davitt and O'Brien, and the McCarthyites generally, are denounced by the Parnellites as murderers, and their followers retaliate in equally severe language. Then the shillelah comes into play.

Balfour's Successor.

LONDON, Oct. 21.—The choice of W. L. Jackson, financial secretary of the Treasury, as the successor of Mr. Balfour, is not received with enthusiasm by the Conservatives. As a man of business in the treasury, Jackson is highly distinguished, but there is no evidence that he possessed the tact of Balfour for a forcible grasp of Irish affairs. The appointment is regarded by some as signifying that the government means to pursue a waiting policy in Ireland and to allow the two factions to butt each other to their heart's content, with only enough interference to make a show of preserving the peace.

The Edam Towed In.

LONDON, Oct. 21.—The Cunard line steamer Scythia, from Boston, October 10, arrived at Queenstown this morning, having in tow the Dutch steamer Edam, from Rotterdam for New York, returning with her propeller gone. The passengers of the Edam landed at Queenstown. They will be transferred to the steamer Rotterdam, which will convey them to New York.

A QUARTER OF A CENTURY AGO

There settled in Baker county, Oregon, near what is now Baker City, a man who has since become identified with the resources and development of that country. This man is no other than Mr. John Stewart, one of the wealthiest and most influential citizens in the county. In a recent letter he says: "I had been suffering from pains in my back and general kidney complaint for some time, and had used many remedies without any but temporary relief. The pains in my back had become so severe that I was prevented from attending to my work and could not move about without the use of a cane. Hearing through a friend, of the wonderful cures effected by Oregon Kidney Tea, I was induced to try a box, and from that very first dose I found instant relief, and before using half the contents of the box the pains in my back entirely disappeared. I have every faith in the virtues of the Oregon Kidney Tea, and can conscientiously recommend it to my friends. I would not be without it for anything."

Oregon Kidney Tea cures backache, incontinence of urine, brick dust sediment, burning or painful sensation while urinating, and all affections of the kidney or urinary organs of either sex.

THE KEY TO HEALTH.

IMPERIAL FEDERATION.

When a deputation from the Imperial Federation League waited on Lord Salisbury to ask the co-operation of the Imperial Government in furthering the object of the League, His Lordship said to his visitors, among other things: "I think that we are almost come to the time when schemes should be proposed and that without them we shall not get very far. You have stated a problem to us to-night—I may almost call it an enigma. If I remember the words, we are to invite the colonies to share in the responsibilities and privileges of the Empire in such a manner as not to disturb the constitution of this country, or that which is enjoyed by the colonies. Well, I think that at all events the solution of this problem does not lie upon the face of it, and that it will require the labor of many able brains before a satisfactory solution is arrived at." This utterance looked exceedingly like a roundabout way of expressing the opinion that the Imperial Federation scheme was an impossibility, or very nearly so. However, Sir Charles Tupper, nothing daunted by Lord Salisbury's scepticism, apparently believes that ability enough lies in his own brains for the solution of the problem, and he accordingly presents what he regards as a feasible scheme in an article in the October number of the Nineteenth Century.

Sir Charles first eliminates as unsuitable the proposals formerly made of a federated parliament and a common tariff for the whole Empire. As to the colonies' share in the Government of the Empire, Sir Charles adopts and elaborates the scheme first outlined by the Marquis of Lorne. He would make the representatives of the colonies in London members of the Colonial Parliaments and of the Colonial Cabinets, at the same time giving them seats in the Imperial Privy Council, where they would be able to give their views on questions affecting the interests of the Empire as a whole or of the Colonies in particular. Sir Charles is not very definite as to what voting powers these Imperial-Colonial Privy Councillors should have, but of course we cannot expect him to descend very far into details. It looks as though the plan, attractive as it is in theory, would not be quite workable in practice.

Dealing next with the question of defence, Sir Charles rejects the idea of the colonies contributing to a common defence fund for the Empire. He prefers that each should look after measures of defence for itself, and instances Canada's work in furnishing a military highway by building the Canadian Pacific, and the development of our militia force.

It is when he comes to the trade question that Sir Charles meets his great stumbling-block, though he faces the difficulty with his usual audacity and self-assurance. He even makes light of the doubt expressed by Lord Salisbury to the deputation of the United Empire Trade League in these words:—"If you give a preferential treatment—that is a better price—to your colonies, it must be a better price than that which, with unrestricted competition, is obtaining now. A better price to the producer means a more disagreeable price to the consumer; and what we have to know before we can formulate any propositions, or before we can invite our colonies to any kind of federation—what it is we have to know is, how far the people of this country would be disposed to support a policy of which, I imagine, the most prominent features are preferential taxes on corn, preferential taxes on meat and preferential taxes on wool." Tupper's way of meeting this is to say that a preferential duty of five shillings a quarter on wheat would not make an appreciable difference on the price of the Englishman's bread, and that the colonies will shortly be able to supply Great Britain with all the meat and bread she needs. He will have some difficulty in impressing his views on this question on the people of Great Britain. The Saturday Review makes the following caustic comment: "Sir Charles is of opinion that this (the five shilling duty) would not raise the price of bread. If it did not, that could only be by diminishing the profits of somebody. The five shillings must come from some pocket, and we do not gather that Sir Charles intends it to be a colonial one." The Economist says: "Evidently, in Sir Charles Tupper's opinion it is more blessed to give than to receive. But the British taxpayer may be pardoned if he doesn't see the matter in the same light."

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Colonist affects to believe that the fire wardens' investigation into the recent fires was of no use because of the absence of experts. Previous to the inquiry, however, the number of wise-acres who had something to say about the fires in the Colonist's columns might well have left the impression that the woods were full of "experts." It was probably wise on their part not to come before the public in their own proper persons.

Toronto, which has always claimed to be a healthy city, has an epidemic of typhoid and diphtheria on hand at the present time. The record of the General Hospital alone is sufficiently alarming to call for action on the part of the health authorities. It shows that up to the middle of October 377 cases of typhoid and 135 cases of diphtheria have been admitted to the hospital, or more than double the number which obtained admission during the whole of last year. A bad feature of the case is, that no one knows exactly to what the epidemic may with certainty be attributed. Whether to polluted water of the lake, or ice cut from the lake or privy pits, or the absence of sewers in some portions of the city, the Board of Health have not satisfied themselves.

THE POULTRY AT THE FAIR.

TO THE EDITOR:—I was very much disappointed at the manner in which the poultry display at the recent exhibition was written up. To me, an outsider, it seemed intended to convey the impression that Dr. Milne had the only good birds there and that Mr. Sturdy won a prize simply through exhibiting an immense number. Now, in my opinion, that was not at all fair. Mr. Sturdy had some good birds there, golden and silver spangled Hamburgs, silver and colored Dorkings, light and dark Brahmas, partridge Cochins, Rouen ducks, and most decidedly as fine a pair of turkeys as will be seen in British Columbia. Messrs. Flett Bros. had white and barred Plymouth Rocks, white and brown Leghorns. In Campbell's pen of silver spangled Hamburgs were two hens that would stand well to win in a good collection of the same. Mr. Black made a display of exhibition games valued at over $300. The pencilling of Mr. Carmichael's partridge Cochin hens and pullets was something very superior to a good many shown there, and his Cochin cockerel and Aylesburg and Pekin ducks won all the prizes offered for their classes, scaling in weight up to the average goose in these parts, completely dwarfing their competitors. Mrs. Chalmers' partridge Cochins were undoubtedly very good for size and true Cochin outline and color, and Mr. Carmichael showed a good Langshan cock and a pair of good buff Cochins. Of course there were other exhibitors, whose names I did not note at the time, but all the exhibitors displayed great enterprise in obtaining and raising such fine stock, and should receive some encouragement from the press.

More of the Marvin Matter.

The mention of the schooner E. B. Marvin's name to a British naval officer will soon produce that "tired feeling" which is so eloquently described by quack medicine vendors. Lately this vessel, her master, and her arms and ammunition have been a source of considerable trouble to the officers of the man-of-war Nymphe. First an argument arose between one of the lieutenants and Captain McDougall of the schooner, the latter coming out of the matter with his colors nailed to the mast. Then the schooner was unconditionally surrendered after being seized (illegally seized, some say). Then came the delivering up of the guns, etc., taken from the schooner on the Nymphe. Yesterday these were brought up to the port, but the owners refused to sign receipts for them as the guns were in bad order through rust and neglect. The guns were taken back and cleaned up and brought around to the owners again to-day. An expert was called to overhaul the guns, with the result that all but eight were receipted for. These eight were in such a bad way the owners declined to sign sign for them. However the guns were left on the schooner's deck by the naval officer in charge of them, and are there still. The end of the schooner Marvin matter is not yet.

The Late C. W. Wallace.

Amid a drenching downpour of rain this afternoon the remains of Charles W. Wallace were consigned to their last resting place. The funeral left the former residence of deceased and proceeded to St. John's church, where the funeral service was read by Rev. Percival Jenns. The pall-bearers were Messrs. W. and Simon Tolmie, Duncan and R. F. Finlayson, A. J. and S. H. Jackson. Walter Wallace and Mrs. Blackwood were the chief mourners.

MUSIC AND THE DRAMA.

The Minstrels at the Victoria Last Night—A Crowded House—Coming Attractions.

Minstrelsy has been so metamorphosed of late years that old-fashioned theatre-goers fail to recognize the richly attired semi-circle of individuals who face an audience now-a-days. It was a thoroughly modern minstrel troupe on which the curtain rose at the Victoria last evening, when Goodyear, Rich & Schilling's minstrel organization opened a two nights' engagement. The "Royal court first part" is a new idea, and is carried out regardless of expense, and is resplendent in the glory of silk and satin draperies, plush and gold. In the musical programme there are several new features; the vocalists are good, the band is a thoroughly well trained body, and some of the jokes are new and newly put. It is about time, though, that the darkey scene was changed. The same thing has been shown more than once and there is nothing really interesting in it. Mr. E. M. Hall is a banjoist of rare ability. He played several gems last evening, and displayed a taste that is very uncommon, as well as a command over his instrument that is exceptionally good. The combination played to a crowded house last evening, and another packed audience is promised for to-night.

"A TURKISH BATH,"

Said to be a very clever musical comedy, presented by a company of merit, will be seen at the Victoria Theatre Friday and Saturday next. From all sources of information we are led to think that all amusement lovers of Victoria have a rare treat in store, for the programme gives assurance of an entertainment comprising a pleasant mixture of jollity and fun unencumbered with coarseness, while the management claims that it is the cleanest comedy before the public.

POISONED NERVES!

A Great Physician's Opinion!

A GREAT REMEDY STRONGLY RECOMMENDED!

The Results Are Wonderful!

The world-known Sir Morell Mackenzie, M.D., asserts in one of his papers that influenza or la grippe, which is still lingering in our mist, is the result of "poisoned nerves"; and from this hypothesis "the bewildering diversity of symptoms become intelligible, if we regard them as the results of disordered nervous actions." Dr. Mackenzie compares it to the extraordinary disturbance in the telegraphic system produced by a thunder storm, and says that is nothing "compared with the freaks played by the conductors in the human body, if anything throws the governing centres out of gear."

This theory of "poisoned nerves" is one that explains an almost infinite variety of attacks and ailments. Some of the most common and best observed are nervousness, nervous headaches, sleeplessness, irritability, nervous dyspepsia, and morbid feelings. These are the most common ailments of to-day, and are bringing thousands down to the grave. Only recently one of our noted Canadian physicians declared "that nine-tenths of such victims could easily have been saved to their families and their country, if their ailments had been treated in a commonsense way."

The same physician declared that "the nervous system was not properly fed"; these are strong and suggestive words.

The true, honest, educated physician of our day is recommending nature's great nerve food in all cases where the nervous system is out of order. When he finds the poor sufferer with unstrung nerves, a sluggish circulation, a sallow countenance, sunken eyes, or suffering from sleeplessness and headaches, he advises the use of Paine's Celery Compound. He knows that rheumatism, neuralgia and dyspepsia are the result of a disorganized nervous system, and he at once says "use Celery Compound."

This grand remedy of nature is neither new or untried; it has saved its tens of thousands from death, and possesses the same mighty power for the relief and cure of all who suffer to-day. It requires but one trial to convince the most skeptical and obdurate. No other medicine has ever effected such wonderful results in our land.

Mining and Hunting.

D. E. Campbell returned last night from an extensive trip through the mining district of Cariboo. The chief object of his journey was to visit the property of the Victoria Hydraulic Mining Company, situated on Coquitete Creek. The company has built a ditch from Spanish Lake into Coquette Creek, a distance of seven and a half miles. The ditch is 2½ feet deep, is seven feet wide at the top and five feet at the bottom. The water was allowed to run through the tunnel and proved satisfactory. At the time the water was sent through Mr. King, of the Inland Sentinel fell in and narrowly escaped being carried through the flume. Mr. Campbell reports that the company are very well satisfied with the property, on which active operations will be commenced early next spring. The South Fork hydraulic mine is also doing well, and promises to be one of the reachest in the country. Mr. Campbell devoted part of his time while away to hunting big game, and has secured several very handsome heads.

Awarded Prizes.

Messrs. Kirchberg and Landsberg who sent a large exhibit of Indian curios to the Toronto exhibition have received word that they were awarded prizes but have not as yet received them. The curios came back by the Dominion Express last evening.

Thanks.

Last evening a vote of thanks was passed at the board of aldermen meeting, and ordered to be sent to the directors of the Tacoma Exposition in return for the many courtesies received by the Victoria Aldermen when on their excursion trip there last week.

They Want a Change.

It is likely that the cab stand which has for so many years graced Government street will remove its location to Douglas street. A petition to this effect is about to be circulated, and will be presented by the hack-men to the council at an early date.

YOUNG & BARTLETT.

Slightly Sarcastic.

Last night a matter came before the Board of Aldermen which would entail the expenditure of quite a sum of money. It was referred to the finance committee for a report. One gentleman suggested it be referred to Roderick Finlayson and others, as they seemed to be anxious to control the civic funds.

Walter King Discharged.

The prosecution in the case charging Walter King with stealing $10 worth of tickets from the tramway company was closed just after the TIMES went to press. Several witnesses were called for the defence, who deposed that they had frequently found punched tickets on the cars and streets and that they had used them. The defendant was therefore discharged, nothing having been proven against him.

Rambles in Scotland.

Rev. J. Ross' lecture last evening in the school room of the First Presbyterian Church was largely attended, and Scotsmen were treated to a very interesting series of reminiscences of bonnie Scotland. His remarks were listened to with the closest attention, and he was frequently applauded for his apt and not unwitty statements. The portrayal of Scottish character and customs was an able one.

More Lights Needed.

The city might put up an extra light or two in the dark alleys in the lower part of the city. A recurrence of the highway robbery committed in Commercial alley on Tuesday evening could be prevented in this way, as highwaymen as a rule will keep out of places where a light shines, and if they do ply their nefarious trade they could be distinguished under an electric light and the police given a clue to work on.

Row on a Steamer.

Considerable trouble has been caused aboard the steamer Olympian lately between the engine room and deck department by the careless use of a force pump by the latter. The ill-feeling culminated in a general riot on Tuesday, when revolvers and clubs played an important part in the fracas. The whole engine room staff, with the exception of Chief Engineer Lawson, left in a body when the boat reached Seattle.

A Question of Cash.

It was shown by Ald. Smith, the chairman of the street committee, last night, that there were over 120 miles of streets in this city. It costs a lot of money to keep these streets in repair, and with the limited means now at the disposal of the board, the street committee state that some bad places are bound to exist, and while the charge of extravagance is hanging over the members they do not care to go to any great expense.

Will They Combine?

It is rumored that on account of the dissolution of the Puget Sound Steamboat pool, the Puget Sound & Alaska Steamship Company and the Union Pacific Steamship Company will try to make arrangements to keep up rates. It is understood that their idea is to combine and keep the boats running as they now are. This is only a rumor, arising, no doubt, out of the fact that the companies will have to take some action or have a rate fight.

Steamboat Repairs.

The steamer City of Seattle came over from the Sound this morning and entered the Esquimalt dock where she will have a new propeller put on and be thoroughly overhauled. She will remain in until Saturday evening when she will give her place to the City of Kingston, which will also have a new propeller put on. The wheel for the latter is the one cast by the Albion Iron Works and which was exhibited by the company at the recent fair. The steamer Olympian takes the Seattle's place on the Whatcom route, the Victorian having relieved the Olympian on the Victoria-Tacoma route.

Undesirable Residents.

This morning four tough looking subjects, the same quartette spoken of in yesterday's issue, were brought up before the police magistrate and charged with being drunk. This charge fitted all right, but one of vagrancy would no doubt have been equally applicable. The charge laid was proven, and a fine of $10 imposed in each case. Supt. Sheppard asked his honor to allow the men until to-morrow noon to pay the fine, in default a month's hard labor was to be recorded against them. This was done, but it is not likely that the fines will be paid, as the convicted ones will in all likelihood skip the town to-night. This is a very neat scheme of the superintendent's to clear the city of a lot of undesirable residents who if sent up for eight days would be immensely pleased.

Struck the Beach.

A rapid tide made the steamer Yosemite hard to handle when near Plumper's Pass landing yesterday, and she grounded, but was subsequently towed off by the Islander and proceeded on her way without damage. It was reported last night that the steamer Yosemite had been badly damaged and towed back to port, but the rumor was false.

Running Team Out.

As is usual in winter and fall a number of vags and hoboes have been making their way to Victoria during the last few days. The police have been expecting them and have kept their eyes open for them. They decided that the best way to handle them was to keep them traveling. The first contingent were therefore notified yesterday to leave for the "land of the free," and they left. Every "good for nothing" that comes here will be dealt with in a like manner.

The Light in the Window.

City Treasurer Kent writes as follows:—"Noticing a paragraph in last evening's TIMES, headed "Nothing Mysterious," I beg to inform you for the benefit of the public at large, that the light in my office for the last fortnight at late hours has been caused by work being done connected with the assessment notices, and not in any way (as hinted) connected with the Royal Commission. My books are and always have been ready for inspection at a moment's notice, and any ratepayer can ascertain that fact by calling at my office at any time between 9 and 4 o'clock."

The Water Commissionership.

The question of electing a water commissioner was not dealt with by the board of aldermen last night. This matter seems to be left hanging for a very long time. It is now nearly two months since Mr. Summerfield's resignation took effect, and as yet no successor has been appointed. Mr. Summerfield has been courteous enough to remain in his office and attend to routine work since that time, but he is liable at any moment to leave, as he will perhaps soon accept a situation carrying a great deal more cash with it. The city would be then left minus a water commissioner. The board has had several applications for the vacant place before them for some time, so that a lack of talent from which to pick a commissioner is not the reason of the delay.

Was Evidently Cut and Dried.

Considerable dissatisfaction has been expressed at the way in which appointments of teachers were made at the last meeting of the Board of School Trustees. It has been inferred from the proceedings that a caucus had been held by a part of the board, when the whole thing had been cut and dried. There were a large number of applications for positions on the teaching staff, but those were only read over once by the secretary when ballotting commenced. One after another the appointments were made, the majority being elected unanimously. Several new applications for positions were not even read or considered. People say that if the trustees are going to make appointments in this way they might as well go back to the old mode of "star chamberism", but it is understood that the whole board was not aware how the appointments were to be made.

A Pressing Need at the Hospital.

It is understood from members of the Board that the matron is most anxious that her staff of nurses should be provided with a really good sewing machine. As is well known, the number of patients is always too large in proportion to the nursing resources of the hospital, and any extra pressure of providing clothing, which necessity frequently occurs, is found to be most trying, badly equipped as they are without a machine. As this is really a most pressing need, it is hoped that an appeal will be promptly responded to. It is suggested that if 60 ladies will each send a dollar the machine can at once be bought. Will any lady seeing this kindly send her dollar either direct to the matron or to Miss Beeton at Armadale. Any surplus sent will be added to a list already opened for subscriptions towards the purchase of a second-hand small piano which can be used for providing occasional musical recreation to the invalids; an advantage which those connected with the Board and the staff earnestly desire for the inmates. Should any lady or gentleman possessing such an instrument be willing to part with it for this object, will they kindly communicate with Miss Beeton at Armadale.

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL.

The Boy Musgrave to Appear at the Approaching Assizes for Incendiarism.

The preliminary enquiry into the charge against the boy Newcombe Musgrave of setting fire to the Spencer building attracted a large attendance to this morning's police court session. The lad was defended by the cream of legal talent who took down the evidence and asked no questions. Seated on one side of the court was a row of schoolboys who were edified by a procession of toughs, drunks and vagrants in attendance on his honor.

Cyril Ward, a chubby little chap of ten summers, was called and warned that an oath meant that he was to tell the truth or he would be punished. The morning before the fire the boy Musgrave told him that he (Musgrave) was going to light a fire in the school-room. He said he had some coal oil. The young witness did not remember Musgrave saying anything about the fire after it occurred. He saw Musgrave put the coal-oil in the bath-room before the second fire. Musgrave emptied the bottle then. Didn't see anything of the third fire (Friday), but on Thursday last Musgrave showed Ward a bottle of coal oil. There were other boys, the Gillespies, saw the coal-oil at the same time.

To his Honor.—It was the morning of the fire that Musgrave spoke to him about it.

H. Gillespie, aged 12 years, stated that Musgrave told him he was going to light the last fire. Musgrave then had a bottle of coal-oil under his coat. Musgrave told witness that he (Musgrave) had lighted the first fire by throwing some coal-oil on a pile of wood and setting it alight. Witness did not tell the teacher anything about the matter. Witness' brother was present at the time, and Musgrave stated that his reason for the act was to get off algebra.

A. Gillespie, brother of the previous witness, and aged 11 years, gave similar evidence. Musgrave told him of his intention to light the first fire, and afterwards told witness of having lighted the fire with coal-oil. Didn't see Musgrave with any coal oil. As witness and Musgrave were going home to lunch on the day of the first fire, the fire bell rang and Musgrave winked at Gillespie, but didn't say anything.

Mr. David Spencer gave evidence as to the fire which took place in his premises. The damage proximately speaking, to both goods and building was about $4700.

Anthony Genn stated that Musgrave warned witness not to tell anyone who set the fire alight.

His honor did not consider it necessary to call any further witnesses, and as the counsel for the defence acquiesced in this, the lad was committed to stand his trial at the approaching assizes, the question of bail to be submitted to a judge of a higher court.

The boy was subsequently released on two sureties of $500 each.

LAST OF THE STEAMER EMMA.

Her Boiler and Engines Taken Out and the Hull Blown up.

The wreck of the steamer Emma purchased by Capt. McCroskie for the owners of the Mascotte, has turned out to be a profitable investment. A few days ago the Mascotte was taken out to Mouatt Reef, where the wreck of the Emma was lying entirely submerged, and Capt McCroskie at once set to work to raise the steamer.

The job was a difficult one, as the tide runs very swiftly in that locality, but the wrecking capabilities of the Mascotte proved equal to the task, and after a deal of fine work the hull of the Emma was raised and lashed alongside the Mascotte which then took her into McNeil's Bay where the wreck was beached.

At low tide the steamer was completely gutted and stripped. The boiler and engines, pumps, engine room, fittings, capstan and in fact all that was movable, including even the galley stove and cooking utensils, were saved and loaded aboard the Mascotte.

It was the intention to tow the hull into port for repairs, but it was found that the timbers and planks were too rotten and old to pay for the trouble which would be entailed, and Captain McCroskie accordingly blew the wreck up with dynamite, that it might in no way impede navigation, and returned to port this morning.

The value of the stuff saved will be over $3000, and as only a few hundreds was paid for it the owners of the Mascotte will be ahead quite a tidy sum. As a wrecker the Mascotte is a success, and Mr. J. C. Prevost has a just pride in the efficiency of his vessel and the ability of her captain and crew.

WAKEMAN'S WANDERINGS

A VISIT TO STRATFORD-ON-AVON.

The Region Round About Rife with Historic and Romantic Interest—Dream Inspiring Associations of the Old City. At Shakespeare's Tomb.

[Copyright, 1891, by Edgar L. Wakeman.]

STRATFORD-ON-AVON, Sept. 30.—If you come to this shrine by railway and its interminable changes, giving you glimpses of all sorts of midland towns, from ancient Warwick, with its stately battlements to Leamington with its modern glitter, you have reached a pleasing state of confusion not remote from the vagaries of dreams. If you have come to the place on the box of one of those famous coaches which spin to various points of interest throughout the shire, you will have seen in a few hours a countless succession of the most beautiful and dreamful countryside pictures in England. And if you should come on foot for the eleven miles, as I did, along the hard, white highway from Warwick, underneath an almost unbroken archway of elms, through the crisp yet drowsy atmosphere of an English midland autumnal morning, there is still surrounding you the glamor of bewitching unreality you cannot and would not dispel.

Tramping over this witching way, what a flood of historic memories sweeps in with the breath of the rosy morning! Here upon this noble eminence, with historic Clopton House to the right and Hampton Lucy to the left, beneath the arching elms is caught the first glimpse of the valley of the Avon. A hundred lesser gentle verdure clad eminences rise and fall, as if with the throbbing of nature's heart, in its fair, far sweep. From away in the northeast winds a thread of silver. It broadens as it disappears and reappears in its course toward the Severn, and is finally lost completely, where, above a mass of elms and limes and red tiled roofs, rises a slender spire. The silvery thread is the Avon. The mass of elms and limes and red tiled roofs is Stratford. The slender spire of its Holy Trinity Church marks the tomb and shrine of the world's immortal bard.

As you descend into the old town every thing is strangely still. On the way you see a few blackbirds hopping sagely among the stubble, close to the sheltering hedge. Here and there a wary pheasant that has escaped the annual autumnal slaughter whisks into the road, trots along its grassy border for a little, and then as suddenly and silently disappears. The kine are sleepily chewing their cuds against the farmhouse byres. A few "stooks" of late gathered grain are huddled in the little fields. The smoke ascends faintly from the chimneys of cottage and hall. They are late risers, these English folk, and the low sun is far up in its slender arc before dwellers give sign of being astir. Even the sable rooks that haunt the dead trees and high, wide chimneys of ancient demesnes, rise sluggishly from their hiding, wheel lazily about it and settle down quietly again, not yet ready to unloose their saucy, chattering tongues.

You know, as everybody knows, when you have come to the little closely hedged, tiled houses, where the open highway has merged into a long, picturesque though humble street, that were you to remain in Stratford for a month's time there could be only just the half dozen places immediately identified with Shakspeare to visit—the house where he was born, the vacant site of the house where he lived at New Place, the church where he is buried, Ann Hathaway's cottage, and the memorial fountain and theater. And while you could see these in an hour's time, the impulse, now that they are so near your ken, is to avoid them; to wander away through the town for a little at first, and, shaking off the dreamful captivity of it all, to try and come back to those objects and places one by one, with increased aptitude and power of recognition and companionship.

You are now in the center of Stratford, on High street. You suddenly recall the curious fact that in all the hundreds of English towns you have visited you have always found a High street, and that every place of interest to be seen, as at Stratford, is only a few moments' walk from every other place, off or on this old familiar High street. Here is an open space, the ancient "mercate square." Jagged, zigzag thoroughfares lead to it from outlying picturesque spots and quarters. All about are half timbered houses projecting story over story into the market place, and you wonder how long before, from sheer age, they will tumble, red roofs first, over into the clean, cool square below. Quaint shops, just now opening, are pinched in between staid old mansions. Bandboxes of inns, scores of them, each striving to outdo the other in curious name or escutcheon suggestive of the one memory of the slumberous old town, speck the gray facades with gilt and color.

Down one of these streets, old Henley street, through whose windings a glimpse of the uplands is caught, you know is to be found the house of all others in Stratford. But you turn in the opposite direction. You pass an ancient inn named for the bard. Each of its rooms is given the name of some one of the characters he created. Servants are higgle-haggling with a rosy faced huckster over the price of vegetables on its comfortable porch. Old stone houses, with the oldest of peaks, gables and pent houses over huge oaken doors, are passed. At some old men and women are nodding, even in these morning hours, at the open windows. Soon there is a vista of trees shutting out all beyond save a gray stone porch. Without knowledge of Stratford topography you have come with unerring instinct straight to Holy Trinity church and graveyard.

An ancient verger with snow white hair is shuffling along the leaf strewn pavement. He pauses, and with a loud jangling of his huge keys he unlocks the wicket, then the wide, low oaken doors, and is shortly lost among the shadows within. You steal softly after him. Somewhere in the dim place the old man is whistling as if for company, in low tones as becomes an old, old man, but somehow it checks your impulse to enter, and you wander around and around the shadowy shrine, halting at last next the side of the chancel nearest where you know that Shakespeare lies. You lay your hand gently on the cold gray stones as if groping for the touch of a near but unseen friend. How long your revery has been you know not, but a tiny, iconoclastic sparrow, scratching among the gravel at your feet, looks so quizzically into your face that you hurry ashamed away.

A few steps among the graves beneath huge elms bring you to the river side, for the Avon he loved laves the sides of the churchyard walls. It is so still and silent here you feel that the very spirit of the stream is hushed in obeisance and reverence for the spot its waters are passing. On the further side are long, lonesome meadows. A few sheep are grazing there. Up the stream to the right, above the masses of trees and tiles, looms the huge obese Memorial Hall. You resent it as you have already turned away from the perky white fountain in mellow old High street. Everything modern here that seeks to memorialize men or committees of today through fantastic memorials to this very sun of the English rack and tongue hurts you with its brazen impertinence.

You turn, pass through the churchyard, and saunter along in the quiet of Mill Lane. At its end is a ramshackle mill, nobody knows how many centuries old. The splash of the wheel has a drowsy sound. A footpath leads to a mossy wooden bridge. You cross this, take to the meadows, with the river, church and town to your left, and cross the fields to Shottery. Here is a typical English village, crisscrossed with stone walls, and hedges cut in high box patterns, and brown with thatched roofs, so old that birds and mice use them for nests, while wild field flowers and weeds grow luxuriously upon them. Instinctively you approach the oldest and quaintest structure in Shottery. Its gable overhangs the lane. Its south side faces a maze of vines and flowers; and four tiny windows, hooded by the thatching, peep over into the breeze and bloom. It is Ann Hathaway's cottage.

A pleasant old woman, whom you feel must have known the maid and the man, hustles about, shows you the interior, the ancient "settle" where the lovemaking was done, the visitors' book with its priceless autographs, even the heirlooms of linen, more lasting than effigy or cenotaph of stone, the while chatting cheerily, as if the lids of time always opened upon her as upon a bright and stainless page. But you have not heard what was said. The old lady's words have blended with the autumn voices without. The voices you have heard came trembling down the silences of more than 300 years, and your heart has thrilled unutterably because, for a moment, so close have come that day to this—those two to you.

Back across the Avon over the great stone bridge, and a few minutes' walk brings you to humble Henley street. There is still the seeming of dreamfolk walking about in the soft autumn air. There are few of them, and they seem either very old or very young; quaint old men and grandams ruddy of face and white of hair, who seem to have stepped out of the olden times to look around their former haunts for a little, and very quiet children with demure old ways. You wonder if the influence of so surpassing a shrine goes this far among Stratford dwellers, or whether it is the glamour of your own fancy. This, as you stand before the birthplace of Shakespeare—a spruce enough structure since its "restoration," with gabled porch, an Elizabethan window in the next story, and a peaked dormer window outjutting from the steep pitched roof above—all with a pretty garden at the sides and back. It seems a long time before the jangling bell is answered.

Finally another beaming old lady appears and you follow her silently within. There is very little to see; incommunicable things to feel. There are two rooms below and two above. One of the latter is a sort of museum, and you find little interest here. In the other the bard was born. Which fact thrills you most powerfully—that here first saw the light of day the great revealer of humanity to men, or that the once white wall is black with the names of the great and mighty of all lands and climes who have come and reverently left these signs of tribute to what was so immortally revealed!

It is as though one had for the first time come into wondrous communion with them all, and it is now more than ever a dream, as you turn from the spot and by and by awaken to the consciousness that you are but one of a horde of pilgrims, and are again passing beneath the portal of Holy Trinity Church.

Yet how little is there for simply the eyes to look upon!—the interior of a modest church of the Thirteenth, Fourteenth and Fifteenth centuries, cruciform, with central tower and spire, and aisles to the nave only; a narrow chancel inclining strangely to the north; ancient oaken pews, with curiously carved miserere beneath; a west window representing the twelve apostles and our Lord's baptism; a chrestory beautifully imposed on the arches below; a north chancel window, the gift of Americans, illustrating from "As You Like It" the Seven Ages of Man; a few ancient sedilia or priests' seats; an entablature of stone, in which is set the painted stone bust of a pleasant faced man, with twirled mustachois and slight, pointed beard, and below a grave, with four lines of inscriptive supplication that the dust and bones beneath shall never be disturbed by mortal man. This is all. Yet every day of every year men and women in increasing numbers come from the earth's remotest bounds to stand beside this silent but never voiceless tomb.

The day passes and the shadows lengthen among the limes. You shrink into a corner beneath protecting pillar, and see, still as in a dream, the motley throng, from peasant to prince, come and go, come and go, as if the great world heart pushed its strongest, warmest, most unfaltering pulsation here. The evening descends, and the last soft footfall has recrossed the worn stone threshold and passed like a whisper over the wind strewn lime leaves beyond. The ancient verger dons his hat and jangles his keys. Like a wraith of your own dreaming self you pass swiftly to the chancel and kneel in the darkening old church beside one grave for a moment alone—

AT SHAKSPEARE'S TOMB.

Once where a spray of apple bloom
Hung o'er my garden wall,
There came a vagrant oriole
To flood the music of his soul
Full in my open-windowed room.

A fleck of gold, with voice of lute,
Within my casement swung—
My own sweet prisoned singing-bird—
Whose tribute, which the master stirred
Left it aghast and mute.

Thus came his flight and canticle,
Flooding Song's dawn with Day.
Thus we, athrill and tribute-stirred,
Like my poor prisoned singing-bird,
Falter, love-dumb and still.

Queen Victoria's Watches.

What an immense sum the queen might realize by the sale of her watches! The oldest watches in the world are in her possession, according to an English authority. She has two beautiful little gold ones by Breguet that are supposed to be a hundred years old. They have silver dials, and are of about the size of a two shilling piece. One is a blind man's watch; the other is a repeater. Both go perfectly and are in constant use. Her majesty's favorite watch is a large plain gold one by Mudge, the English maker.

When Do Bluefish Spawn.

Professor Goode thinks that there is probably a spawning time for bluefish in early spring, or even in winter, and that then, urged by a migratory instinct, the fish move northward along our coast. In Dr. Henshall's study of fish in southern Florida he notices the finding of a single specimen three inches long, taken off Lemon bay.—New York Times.

THE BOARD OF ALDERMEN.

Transaction of Business at the Regular Weekly Meeting Last Evening.

At 8 o'clock last evening Aldermen McKillican, Holland, Hunter, Robertson, Munn and McKillican were present at the Council Chambers at the City Hall. In the absence of Mayor Grant, Ald. McKillican was voted to the chair and the minutes of the last meeting read and adopted.

While the minutes were being read Aldermen Smith and Coughlan entered the room and took their seats. Acting clerk E. C. Smith then read the following

COMMUNICATIONS.

From the city assessor, stating that he had received the ten per cent. first payment on the Spring Ridge lots in all cases except one, and asking further instructions—To report to the city barrister.

From Eberts & Taylor, in re transfer of land on Johnson street for the purpose of widening Johnson street and asking that checks be made payable to Capt. G. Rudlin and J. Dooley for the land aforesaid.

Ald. Coughlan thought the price asked ($2000) was too high.

Ald. Smith explained that the total cost of widening the street would be nearly $4500, and that the street committee did not care to deal with the question in the form of a report, but preferred that the board take it up.

On motion the matter was laid over for one week.

From T. E. McConnan and H. E. Crossdaile, calling attention to bad state of Fort street near the Five Sisters block, and complaining of the nuisance there existing.—Referred to police and street committee.

From L. Buttress-Trimen, asking permission to open street for placing of drain.—Granted.

From Elford & Smith, stating that the water from the View street gutter was flooding the excavations at the Driard Hotel.—Referred to the street committee.

From C. H. King, calling attention to an obstruction on Herald street.—Referred to street committee.

From P. T. Johnson, applying for permission to plant shade trees.—Dealt with by street committee.

From H. Courtney, asking for a box drain on Harrison street.—Referred to street committee.

From D. W. Higgins, in reference to alteration of the lines of the Pandora street extension of the street railway.

In answer to Ald. Renouf, Ald. Smith stated that the street committee had nothing to do with the matter.

As several other reports had to be heard in the case, the matter was tabled for a time.

Mayor Grant here took the chair.

From C. H. Sharp and others, asking that Hill street be graded.—Referred to street committee.

PETITIONS.

From several residents of Victoria street asking for a sidewalk in that district.—Referred to committee.

THAT ROYAL COMMISSION.

From John Robson, Provincial Secretary, stating a Royal Commission composed of Sir M. B. Begbie and Justice M. W. T. Drake had been appointed in answer to the prayer of several ratepayers.

Ald. Smith—That is a very extraordinary commission. It puts me in mind of a fish commission. They are trying to catch a fluke with a flounder. In my opinion if the citizens of Victoria are dissatisfied the board should step down and out. (Hear, hear.) The speaker thought that if the parties complaining, who had been forced to become rich, had spent more money in helping on the city less trouble would be caused. He for one had nothing to fear, but objected to any sums of money being wasted for such a commission, as it was only a fishing commission. Fishing for something they knew not of.

Ald. McKillican took objection to that part of the clause of the complaint which stated that $10,000 of civic funds set aside for cemetery purposes had been diverted from its proper channel. Such was not the case.

Mayor Grant thought it advisable to say nothing further until the commission had completed its labors. Then it would be time to talk.

Ald. Hunter—I agree with Ald. Smith, Ald. McKillican and the Mayor in their remarks. It seems to me we are to be handed over to what I may call the antiquarian society. These charges have been made, and let them investigate them. Instead of sending a fluke to catch a flounder, it looks like sending a constickle to catch a whale. (Laughter.) In the words of Shakespeare, I would say to them: "Come on, McDuff."

Ald. Renouf was in favor of all hands resigning and going again before the people. This would show whether Roderick Finlayson and others were the whole of the city or not.

The Mayor was opposed to this. He believed in looking the matter squarely in the face. They had nothing to fear and to resign would look as if they were running away. It was the Government's duty to appoint the commission as asked for.

NOTICE OF MOTION.

Notice of motion to call for tenders for 600 tons of water pipe was made by Ald Coughlan, and on vote the resolution was carried.

STREET CAR LINES.

On motion the board went into committee of the whole to consider the communications of D. W. Higgins, P. Leech and others on the question of the change in street car lines.

A report from P. Leech, the city surveyor, detailing the particulars of the placing of the lines at first and subsequently. Also enclosing bill of $415.50 from T. Sinclair as remuneration for change in the street lines.

Ald. Robertson was surprised that such a mistake should have been made at first.

D. W. Higgins' communication having been read,

Ald. Renouf asked the city surveyor if a plan had been submitted to him at first showing the proposed line and approved of by him.

Mr. Leech replied that such plan had been submitted and approved of by him.

Ald. Renouf then asked if the regulation 30 days' notice of opening up the street had been given.

It was shown that such notice had been given.

Ald. Smith objected to the bill of $416 sent in by Mr. Sinclair, and ask particulars of the claim.—The particulars were shown.

The Mayor was of the opinion that if a mistake had been made by the city surveyor, or a change had been made in his plans, the city should recompense the contractor who was put to a loss.

Ald. Smith moved, and Ald. Robertson seconded, that the amount of the bill be paid to Mr. Sinclair, less $50, and the track moved in accordance with the amended plans.—The motion carried.

The committee rose and reported the result of their labors.—Report adopted.

REPORTS.

From the street committee, recommending certain street work.—Adopted.

From the park committee, stating that they were unable to carry out Mr. Brett's suggestions.—Adopted.

From the financial committee, that the city had no site for a drill-shed, and no funds to buy one. That Drake, Jackson & Helmcken be asked to suggest some way to deal with certain by-laws. That the lack of funds made it impossible to comply with the request of the Horticultural Society for a donation. That the bill of Mr. Edwin Johnson, Q.C., for police magistrate's services, was too large, and offering a list of payments to be made to those gentlemen who acted as magistrates when the bench was empty. That the B.C. Agricultural Association's suggestion re a by-law be drafted.

The Mayor thought that Mr. Edwin Johnson should not be put on the same schedule of pay as a J.P. He was a man of high legal attainments who occupied the bench when important cases were on. An arrangement had been made with Mr. Johnson to this effect.

Ald. Smith stated that the finance committee were willing to reconsider this part of the report.

That section of the report concerning the B.C. Agricultural Society was discussed and correspondence accompanying it read. Said correspondence asked that a new by-law be placed before the ratepayers.

On motion the report was adopted except that clause pertaining to Mr. Johnson's salary.

REPEATED BY-LAWS.

Ald. Renouf gave notice of the introduction of by-laws to take the place of those declared informal

The board then rose.

Minister Carter's Illness.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—The condition of H. A. T. Carter, U.S. Minister to the Sandwich Islands, who is lying dangerously ill at the Everett hotel, this city, has not improved. He is still very low.

King of Medicines

A Cure "Almost Miraculous."

"When I was 14 years of age I had a severe attack of rheumatism, and after I recovered had to go on crutches. A year later, scrofula, in the form of white swellings, appeared on various parts of my body, and for 11 years I was an invalid, being confined to my bed 6 years. In that time ten or eleven sores appeared and broke, causing me great pain and suffering. I feared I never should get well.

"Early in 1886 I went to Chicago to visit a sister, but was confined to my bed most of the time I was there. In July I read a book, 'A Day with a Circus,' in which were statements of cures by Hood's Sarsaparilla. I was so impressed with the success of this medicine that I decided to try it. To my great gratification the sores soon decreased, and I began to feel better and in a short time I was up and out of doors. I continued to take Hood's Sarsaparilla for about a year, when, having used six bottles, I had become so fully released from the disease that I went to work for the Flint & Walling Mfg. Co., and since then on account of sickness. I believe the disease is expelled from my system, I always feel well, am in good spirits and have a good appetite. I am now 27 years of age and can walk as well as any one, except that one limb is a little shorter than the other, owing to the loss of bone, and the sores formerly on my right leg. To my friends my recovery seems almost miraculous, and I think Hood's Sarsaparilla is the king of medicines." WILLIAM A. LEHR, 9 N. Railroad St., Kendallville, Ind.

HAVE NOT LOST A SINGLE DAY

COAL

The New Vancouver Coal Mining & Land Co., L'd.

(FORMERLY THE VANCOUVER COAL CO.),

ARE THE LARGEST COAL PRODUCERS ON THE PACIFIC COAST.

THE NANAIMO COAL
(Used principally for Gas and Domestic Purposes).

THE SOUTH FIELD COAL
(Steam Fuel).

THE NEW WELLINGTON COAL

House and Steam Coal are mined by this Company only.

THE "NANAIMO" COAL gives a large percentage of Gas, a high Illuminating Power unequalled by any other bituminous Gas Coal in the world, and a superior quality of Coke.

THE "SOUTH FIELD" COAL is now used on all the Leading Steamship Lines on the Pacific.

THE "NEW WELLINGTON" COAL which was introduced early in the present year, has already become a favorite fuel for domestic purposes. It is a clean, hard coal, makes a bright and cheerful fire, and its lasting qualities make it the most economical fuel in the market.

The several Mines of the Company are connected with their Wharves at Nanaimo and Departure Bay where ships of the largest tonnage are loaded at all states of the tide. Special dispatch is given to Mail and Ocean steamers.
